XyEnterprise and Letterpart Form Partnership to Extend the Benefits of Automated XML Publishing in the UK

Letterpart to sell and support XyEnterprise XML Professional Publisher (XPP)

Wakefield, Mass. and Surrey, UK. – May 5, 2009 – XyEnterprise, a leading developer of award-winning XML component content management and multi-channel delivery solutions, today announced it has formed a business alliance partnership with Letterpart Limited, one of the UK leaders in automated XML typesetting, batch pagination and loose-leaf publishing. Letterpart chose to represent XPP, XyEnterprise's XML Professional Publishing software, because it is the best-of-breed automated XML publishing engine for high-quality composed and paginated PDF output.

"This is a very exciting venture," said Chris Leggett, founder and MD, Letterpart. "We have always placed the highest emphasis on utilizing the best tools available for the satisfaction of our clients' requirements, and we see this partnership as a strategic and long-term alliance which will take both our organizations to higher levels," Leggett said.

Letterpart has nearly 20 years of experience with XPP and has assisted XyEnterprise with much of the installed XPP user base in the UK. Its experience in the legal and regulatory markets, coupled with its in depth knowledge of the benefits to users makes Letterpart uniquely positioned to represent XyEnterprise in the UK. Letterpart will not simply be reselling the software - they will incorporate XPP as part of a complete pre-publishing solution for clients who wish to keep their XML processing in-house.

"There is no question that our partnership with Letterpart will help propel XPP more deeply into the UK publishing market," said Lou Iuppa, VP of business development, XyEnterprise. "Letterpart's reputation for excellence in XML typesetting and its passion to help its customers succeed reflect the same values that have made XyEnterprise a trusted vendor in the US," Iuppa said.

Letterpart will be conducting various activities over the coming months to promote their partnership with XyEnterprise and to introduce their services to the UK market. The first event in the series will be a Webinar entitled, "Saving Money Today with Automated XML Typesetting." Additional details will be available at www.letterpart.com.
